2026 EDITION · UPDATED AUGUST 2026 · RATES REVIEWED QUARTERLY

Hourly rates, published.

Market is what on-demand missions run on our board today; locked is what JetNine Card members pay, fixed for 24 months. Either way the quote you accept is all-in — fuel, crew, landing, repositioning, 7.5% federal excise tax, standard catering, sedan transfer — and it does not move after acceptance.

Four real lanes, priced.

Indicative one-way ranges for the whole aircraft — not per seat — computed by the same engine that powers the quote wizard at jetnine.com/quote/mission. Your exact number depends on date and airframe availability; a senior dispatcher confirms it within 30 minutes during operating hours.

Route	Category	Block time	All-in, one way
Los Angeles to Aspen (VNY - ASE)	Light jet	1h 57m	$9,500 – $13,000
Los Angeles to Las Vegas (LAX - LAS)	Light jet	1h 12m	$6,000 – $8,000
New York to Palm Beach (JFK - PBI)	Midsize	2h 29m	$16,000 – $22,500
Los Angeles to New York (VNY - TEB)	Super-mid	4h 45m	$38,500 – $54,500

Three honest discounts

Empty legs — repositioning flights at 30–60% off, date- and route-locked. The live board at jetnine.com/empty-legs updates every fifteen minutes, and the SMS watchlist texts you when your lane lists: one SMS per match, no spam.

Flexibility — repositioning is the biggest avoidable line item. Shifting a departure day toward where aircraft already are, or accepting a region's secondary airport, regularly beats any negotiation.

Locked rates — the JetNine Card fixes hourly rates from $2,950/hr for 24 months with no peak surcharges. Worth the math at roughly 25+ flight hours a year; below that, stay on-demand and we'll tell you the same.

The ten-question checklist.

Run any broker — us included — through this list before you book. A desk that answers all ten quickly is telling you something; a desk that stalls on three of them is telling you more.

- 01 Is the quote all-in — fuel, crew, landing fees, repositioning, and the 7.5% FET printed on it?
- 02 Is the price locked at acceptance, or can it move before departure?
- 03 Which operator flies the trip, and what certificate do they hold?
- 04 What third-party safety rating does that operator carry — and is it a requirement or a coincidence?
- 05 What are the pilot minimums — hours, type rating, two-crew?
- 06 What insurance does the operator carry, and is a certificate available before booking?
- 07 What is the written remedy if the operator fails the call-out?
- 08 What's the cancellation and refund policy, in writing?
- 09 Who do you call mid-trip, and do they answer around the clock?
- 10 Are catering, ground transfer, and pet or baggage fees itemized before acceptance?

When the reading is done

The quote wizard prices any route in about ninety seconds — live indicative pricing, no callback required — and a senior dispatcher confirms exact airframes within 30 minutes during operating hours. Truly time-critical? The dispatch line answers in under twenty seconds, every hour of every day: +1 (424) 487-2707.

Every airframe we quote flies for an ARG/US- or Wyvern-audited operator that passed our written safety floor and an in-person vetting visit — 380 approved of roughly 5,000 US Part 135 certificates. The full standard is published at jetnine.com/safety.
